THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

VOL. XXIII.

ATLANTA, GA., FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 3, 1892.

PRICE FIVE CENTS.

THE DAYS ARE DULL,

Because the Statesmen Are on Their Way Westward,

AS WELL AS THE NEWSPAPER MEN, Who Are Seeking the Wilds of Minneapolis,

WHERE HARRISON AND BLAINE Engross the Attention of the Delegates Who Are Looking for the Winning Man.

Washington, June 2.—(Special)—The politicians are leaving the city in droves—Democrats on their way to Minneapolis and Republicans getting their valises ready for Chicago.

How the result will be but a few days more will determine. Blaine will furnish the full for the Republicans, while Harrison will get the votes. Cleveland will have the delegates at Chicago, but they will be handicapped by his Syracuse friends.

The Day in the Senate.

There was an unusually small attendance of senators present when today's morning session began. Although the expedition to Minneapolis was exclusively from the republican side of the chamber, the Democratic side made the headlines in point of number—there being only six senators present on that side. The silver hill senators were almost all at their posts—Moore, Teller, Wolcott and Stewart being hunched together, and holding conference with each other and with Mr. Morgan. Mr. Morrill subsequently joined the group, and had an animated conversation with its members. Mr. Sherman was in his seat, and so was Mr. Allison, on whose motion the senate agreed to adjourn from today till Monday next.

Turke Talks on Reciprocity.

The resolution offered yesterday by Mr. Turke, calling for the correspondence with Hayd, Colombia and Venezuela, in regard to reciprocity, was taken up, and Mr. Tammie added his name to the senate upon it. He spoke out of his characteristic speech, holding with wit and satire. He growls few, with impatience and impatience sinks the president and secretary of state in connection with their alleged rivalry as to which was entitled to the credit of having devised the scheme of reciprocity. He intended to show that, like other things under the sun, there was nothing new about it, and that its first appearance in modern history was the Methuen treaty between Great Britain and Portugal in the early part of the last century, while the most important development was the treaty between France and England in 1812. He cited the arrangements to accrue from the recent reciprocity treaty with South American states, and concluded by saying that weak and narrow, not commercial, but political, with the broad free-trade doctrine of the democratic party. Besides all that, he questioned the right of the president to make treaties that were not advised and assented to by the senate, under the provisions of the constitution.

The only other feature of the senate proposed was Mr. Stewart's speech—continued from yesterday—in favor of the free coinage of silver in the near existence of what he declared himself a firm believer.

The senate, at the close of Mr. Stewart's speech, provided for an investigation of recent national bank failures, held an executive session, and then took a holiday until next Monday.

In the House, this morning Mr. Hatch reported the agricultural appropriation bill. It was ordered printed and recommended.

About one dozen leaves of absence were granted, principally to republicans, the cause being "important business."

Mr. Goodnight, of Kentucky, from the committee on judiciary, reported a resolution calling for information as to the status of business before the court of claims.

Adopted. The house then went into committee of the whole. Mr. Buchanan in the chair, on the post office appropriation bill.

No other amendment was acted upon, the committee rose and Mr. Hooker, of Mississippi, asked unanimous consent for the consideration of a joint resolution appropriating $30,000 for the relief of flood sufferers in Warren and Jefferson counties, Mississippi. Mr. Long, of Texas, objected.

The house then adjourned.

The press gallery of the house today was occupied by two newspaper men. The new crop has, within the past twenty-four hours, moved westward from the capital. The attendance in the house was small, progress in legislation slow and attention the smallest. The legislative bark struck a snag when it reached the item for inland transportation by railroad routes, and before it had an opportunity to free itself the house had adjourned.

In Favor of Sunday Observance.

Senator Turpie, of Indiana, today introduced in the senate the memorial adopted in Atlanta on May 9, 1892, by the Woman's Mission Union, an auxiliary of the southern Baptist convention, protesting against the opening of the world's fair on Sunday.

The River and Harbor Bill.

Mr. Blanchard, its chairman, and other members of the river and harbor committee, have been doing a good deal of missionary work today. The river and harbor bill is on the calendar, and will be read in the entire first side of the face, when death ensued.

arisen to the proportions of a scandal. The bill reported today prohibits Mr. Dodge from injecting his phantasies into his reports. He is to tell the facts and quote the figures and let those interested do the rest as best suits them.

Mr. Livingston Speaks.

Mr. Livingston made a speech in the house today in behalf of the rural districts as to their mill facilities. He then moved that an additional $200,000 be put upon that portion of the postoffice appropriation bill which makes provision for the star route service. He got what he was after.

Mr. Reed, whose conversion to the Blaine ranks recently has been one of the significant signs of the times, said today that he thought that Mr. Blaine would be balloted at Minneapolis. Mr. Reed also said that he would not, as has been reported, be the temporary chairman of the republican convention. He had not made up his mind whether he would even go there.

THE SCHOOL YEAR,

Which Is Just Now in Its Days of Fruitful, POPULAR ATTENTION.

The Coming Commencement at the State University—Flowers and Eloquence in LaGrange.

Athens, Ga., June 2.—(Special)—The entrance examinations for the University of Georgia will be held on Friday and Saturday, June 10th and 11th.

On Friday, the 10th, the examination in mathematics will be held at 9 o'clock a.m., and at 2:30 p.m., on the same day, the Latin examination will be held.

On Saturday, the 11th, the English examination will be held at 9 o'clock a.m., and Greek and modern languages at 2:30 o'clock p.m. For further details apply to Rev. William E. Boggs, chancellor of LaGrange Female College.

LaGrange, Ga., June 2.—(Special)—Undoubtedly the most successful year in the history of the LaGrange Female college has been closed by the most brilliant commencement exercises it has ever known. Your correspondent has already referred to the exercises given Monday and Tuesday, with the exception of the grand concert and readings given by Mr. George Page on Tuesday evening. Of course it goes without saying that an immense crowd was present to hear Virginia's celebrated writer and lecturer. People came in from all the adjacent towns. So completely did Mr. Page succeed in his efforts that he was invited to read "Pulaski's Tournament," which he did.

The college may well afford to consider itself fortunate at having Mr. Page with him, when it is known that he gave up other institutions to lecture on the same night.

On yesterday morning the second section of the school year opened, and after Thomas Nelson Page delivered one of the most commendable addresses our people have ever had the pleasure of listening to. While it was eloquent at times, yet it was simple that children could understand and appreciate it. His tribute to our southern girls was beautiful, and the advice given to the graduating class, if carried out, will insure happiness to each of them.

At the conclusion of this address Professor R. W. Smith stepped forward and after a few appropriate remarks delivered the young ladies their diplomas.

Today the young ladies are leaving for the homes and by tomorrow the campus of the college will present a different appearance.

The Girls' High School of Covington.

Covington, Ga., June 2.—(Special)—The commencement exercises of the Girls' High school occurred last night at the Mason hall, and a large and appreciative audience in attendance. The programme was a fine one. The entire programme was rendered, and contributed greatly to the pleasure of the audience. Immediately after the exercises Professor A. V. Lynch, principal of the school, delivered an interesting address to the graduating class. This was supplemented by some eminently appropriate and well-expressed advice for John D. Davis, in delivering the diploma. The subject of Mr. Davis' address was: "A Noble Discontent," and he discussed it in an interesting and eloquent manner admirably suited to the occasion. He spoke of the discontent of which he spoke is the expression for the achievement of lofty purposes and the accomplishment of noble deeds; that it has been the inspiration to laudable effort in every department of life, the most potent factor in the accomplishment of real success, and, hence, should be thoroughly cultivated, and permitted to do its perfect enabling work.

Public Schools.

Griffin, Ga., June 2.—(Special)—The public schools of Griffin have just closed a splendid year's work with a brilliant commencement, the exercises have all been pleasant and enjoyable.

Hon. S. D. Bradwell, state school commissioner, delivered the address to the graduates.

The address was well received.

The Building Blown Down.

St. Mary's, Ga., June 2.—(Special)—Tuesday about noon time the wind blew very hard and the school year and the world with it came to a standstill. The commencement is upon us, and the exercises will be opened with the usual champion deportment.

The programme is as follows:

Friday, June 3d, 8 p.m.—Literary Society.

Saturday, June 4th, 11 a.m.—Trustees meet, 8 p.m.—Freshman declamation.

Sunday, June 5th, 10 a.m.—Commencement sermon by S. A. Gresham.

Ga. 8 p.m.—Missionary sermon by Rev. J. D. Chapman, of Milledgeville.

Monday, June 6th, 8 p.m.—Senior class exercises.

Tuesday, June 7th, 8 p.m.—Senior class declamation.

The closing exercises of the literary societies for the literary societies by Hon. R. B. Hopper, of Forsyth Co.

Wednesday, June 8, 10 a.m.—Graduation exercises, senior orations and the conferring of degrees.

8 p.m.—Alumni reception.

The closing days of Mercer.

Macon, Ga., June 2.—(Special)—Friday is the last day of the school year and the world with it comes to a standstill. The commencement is upon us, and the exercises will be opened with the usual champion deportment.

The programme is as follows:

Friday, June 3d, 8 p.m.—Literary Society.

Saturday, June 4th, 11 a.m.—Trustees meet, 8 p.m.—Freshman declamation.

Sunday, June 5th, 10 a.m.—Commencement sermon by S. A. Gresham.

Ga. 8 p.m.—Missionary sermon by Rev. J. D. Chapman, of Milledgeville.

Monday, June 6th, 8 p.m.—Senior class exercises.

Tuesday, June 7th, 8 p.m.—Senior class declamation.

The closing exercises of the literary societies for the literary societies by Hon. R. B. Hopper, of Forsyth Co.

Wednesday, June 8, 10 a.m.—Graduation exercises, senior orations and the conferring of degrees.

8 p.m.—Alumni reception.

This committee met here Tuesday, June 2d and have the examination papers under their inspection. They are looking after the general interests of the college and its management for the next year. Some of the members of that other degree, but all the others have a common interest in the welfare of the state and its welfare. They are prominent men from all parts of the state, and who are thoroughly acquainted with college affairs.

The Alumni Record.

will be a new and special feature. Heretofore it has been a "down-town" hotel affair, but no order of things have, like many others, at Mercer, been done so well that not only the alumni and their wives and daughters will be there but the boys and their best girls will be there. The junior class has a special invitation. Many persons will be there, and the whole thing will be a great affair. President A. G. Nunnally has been doing a great deal of work all over the state to secure rooms at the hotels, and those so anxious were they to be at the reception.

No doubt now about the law school. It will regain its feet next term and walk off with a good record.

Some of the present senior class are to take the course and at least half of the junior class and many special students have already signed up.

GEORGIA'S CROPS.

The Reports Continue to Be Very Favorable.

THE COTTON ACREAGE WILL BE LESS,

While the Wheat, Corn, and the Root Crops Are Largely Increased. What the People Say.

Rome, Ga., June 2.—(Special)—From the fertile fields of Floyd come the most flattering reports of fine prospects for a splendid harvest. The rich lowlands of the Ocoee, from Texas valley beyond the Lavender mountains, on the north to old Chillicothe district, the crops are reported in splendid condition and the farmers exceedingly hopeful.

There are more cereals planted this year than usual. More wheat has been planted than for many years past. The acreage of oats is also large.

The Wheat Crop.

The wheat crop is considered very fine and on the Rossville farm on Silver creek the yield is said to be the greatest ever seen in this section.

The oat crop in some localities is only fair, but wherever the hand is very fertile the result will be very large.

The acreage of corn is greatly increased. The soil is good, the crop is well, but is clean. But the recent change in farming affairs is the reduced acreage of cotton. In some localities as much as one-half of the usual acreage has been left off. In other localities as much as one-fourth. Perhaps a fair average of the crop planted is reduced about one-third of the usual acreage.

The fruit industry is run on a large scale in Floyd county. There are several large vineyards and orchards on the mountain tops, and the report from there is that the grape crop will be very fine, and peaches and apples and pears are very good. From the vineyards and orchards of the valleys a better report of the crop is made, and some think the harvest promises great returns. Talks with Farmers.

The Constitution obtained several opinions from farmers living in different parts of the country.

Hon. J. C. Foster, of Foster's Mill district, reports: "The crop outlook is very fine. At least one-third of the cotton acreage has been cut off. More wheat and oats have been planted and they are unusually good. It is hard to say whether it will be a prosperous year for the financial results they can show prove that there is money in farming if the things that the public wants are raised."

T. R. Richardson, of Rome, says: "The cotton crop is being raised by prominent farmers that the grain acreage in this section is larger than it has been for many years. More wheat and oats and corn have been planted than ever before, and the crop grows well."

Interviews with the leading farmers of this section reveal the fact that wheat will be a good crop this year. It is not very high, but it is well fruit. Some little rust is appearing on the blade, but not across the crop of last year. A marked decrease in the cotton acreage is everywhere apparent. In some counties the decrease goes as high as 30 per cent, while in others it is not higher than 10. An average decrease in the cotton acreage of 20 per cent is about the true status of affairs.

This decrease is made up, however, in the increase of the cereal crops.

Let Us Reason Together.

There is such a thing as a fatal infamy of speech and excitable men with this unaccountable people do more harm than good when they take the stump in a political campaign.

Some men labor under the delusion that strong language is equivalent to strong argument. They think that hot words are words of great power and accompany ideas of exceptional force.

Generally, this is the mistake of immature minds, but many good and sensible men fall into the habit of intense and exaggerated expression, just as they sometimes fall victim to other forms of temperament. Before they know it, they overstep the bounds of legitimate argument, and deliver tirades of personal abuse, attacking private character, and impugning the motives of their opponents.

This is all wrong, and with our experience in public affairs we should have outgrown such methods long ago. The fact is, great care should be exercised in the selection of the speakers who take the stump among the people. We make a serious mistake when we send out democrats who simply abuse individuals in the third party and in the republican ranks, without making a sound argument against the principles and measures advocated by those parties. And, on the other hand, the third party makes a bad blunder when it sends out speakers who vilify and threaten leading democrats and their followers.

There can be no argument—no campaign of education—no profitable discussion, when violent abuse takes the place of reason. If the democracy and the third party have not virtue enough in them to make it safe to submit their issue to a fair and free discussion, then they must be very rotten indeed.

Sensible voters these days do not want to hear a leader on the other side denounced as a traitor or scoundrel. They want his political errors clearly expressed, and the weakness of his cause made plain to all the world. They want to hear a statement of facts and arguments that will strengthen their convictions and overwhelm their opponents. Such a debate can be conducted without stirring up bitter strife and bad blood, but a campaign of mud-slinging makes no converts, and divides communities into hostile camps.

At the present time the most important political and economic problems of this generation are before the people. They should be deliberately considered and decided upon in a spirit of wisdom, moderation and justice; and mutual respect and forbearance should seal the lips of disputants when they reach the ultimate limit of legitimate debate.

In our family differences, so to speak, it should be recollect that the third party and the democrats are aiming at the same economic reforms. It is in order to freely discuss their different methods, but it is absurd for southern white men who have voted the democratic ticket ever since Appomattox to denounce each other as cut-throats, merely because some make the mistake of switching off into a new party, while others are convinced that the democracy holds out the surer hope of success.

Brethren, let us reason together. If it can be shown that the new and feeble third party alone can smash republican plutocracy and maintain white supremacy in the south, then the democratic masses will flock to its standard. But if it appears that the social, political and economic interests of the south can be best advanced, in the past, by the grand old party of Jefferson, then the third party men, the sensible and patriotic citizens, should return to the democratic fold and march with us to victory.

Let us have no more hot and bitter words, but let us have in their place the words of truth and soberness—words that will win and conciliate, and bring good men together, uplifting the solid south, assuring the defeat of the fire bell and the triumph of democracy, and restoring the harmony and fraternity that characterized our people in the brave days of old!

The Crash in Corn.

The scene in the corn exchange at Chicago on the last day of May was a rare example of desperate commercial gambling—one which comes as an object lesson to the country at the very time when congress is about to pass on the Hatch bill.

It was a case in which speculators were arrayed against legitimate dealers. It was the gamblers against the elevator men and the protectors of bad weather had given the gamblers the advantage. Elevator men had bought corn in the western states, and in order to cover the risk of fluctuation while the grain was coming to market, they sold it for May delivery at 40 cents. The rain descended and the floods came; the grain could not be delivered and the last day of May approached rapidly. The elevator men had sold 500,000 bushels of corn for May delivery and of it was in sight. It became evident that the contracts could not all be filled and Custer and Martin, daring speculators from New York, bought up the May contracts and held them over until the time should come to demand the pound of flesh. On the last day of May their agent stood in the pit and cried, "Buy or sell May at a dollar!"

The crowd went wild and for a while it looked like corn would go to $1.50 or $2. But it didn't get there. The elevator men had worked day and night to get in their corn, and had succeeded in rushing up 400,000 bushels. When the exchange opened they had the corn receipts in their pockets. Instead of filling their 40-cent contracts they sold corn at $1 to the clique broker, delivered receipts on the spot and demanded the cash. This was a checkmate. Custer and Martin paid out certified checks as long as their money lasted, and about 11:30 the Bank of Montreal refused to honor their demand. Then came the stampede and the crash in corn, the price of which dropped in a few seconds from $1 to 50 cents.

Such talk as this is nothing less than treasonable in the view of men who go about preaching that the "gold dollar is the measure of value," that "gold is always at par," and kindred absurdities; but the whole matter may as well be put on a common sense basis at once. If the remonetization of silver will drive gold out of the country let it go. If it will only stay when it has the privilege of robbing the people, the sooner it goes the better. It is better that every dollar of gold should be driven out of the country than for our cotton and wheat growers to continue to be the victims of British rapacity, and the debtors of the country to be robbed by the constantly increasing value of gold.

We therefore say to The Savannah Press that the real or imaginary exportation of gold from this country is a very cheap price for the privilege of remonetizing silver.

But, our contemporary will say, this will place the country on a silver basis. Precisely so. Better a thousand times than the silver basis than the gold basis. If we are to have the silver standard, give us the silver standard all the time. But this will put us on a level with India. Well, why not? India is getting 14 cents a pound for her cotton and $1.20 a bushel for her wheat. Why not lift the American farmers at least to the level of the Indian farmers?

A Touch of Prosperity.

Following the encouraging reports of the commercial agencies, The Constitution's favorable crop news will make it apparent that we are entering a period of comparatively good times.

With plenty of easy money at the centers, beginning to make its way outward, and with the almost certain prospect of good crops, it is safe to say that the fall will find us in good condition, with trade and industry enjoying almost a boom.

Our crop reports make a splendid showing for diversified agriculture. Our farmers have wisely decreased their cotton acreage about 25 per cent, and have given their attention to food crops for man and beast. They have gone to work in the right way to make themselves independent, and their economy during the past two or three years will leave them more hard cash this fall than they have had in a long time. The big fruit crop now in sight will bring large sums of money southward this summer, and the general revival of confidence bids fair to make times improve right along.

Debt-paying economy and diversified crops are at the bottom of this improvement. If our farmers had lived extravagantly and relied on cotton alone the outlook would be gloomy enough. As it is, they changed their policy just in time to profit by its beneficial results.

As a matter of course the republicans point to our prosperity as the natural sequence of their tariff and financial legislation, but every farmer with sense enough to get out of a shower of rain knows that he is getting along in spite of the republican system, and not because he is aided by it. Our success this year only intensifies the desire of our people to smash the rubber tariff and the oppressive financial system now in our way in order to give our crippled business and industrial interests a fair field and a fighting chance. Still, it is something to be thoughtful for that we have this gleam of sunshine, and that we may now look forward to a season of prosperity not paralleled here in the south for the past three years or more. Our material progress is assured, and we do not believe that our political enemies will ever succeed in arresting our development, unless our own factional divisions should give them full sway in the south. Such criminal folly on our part is not to be contemplated, and we take it for granted that our people will make their solid work and solid votes securely guard their rising industries, their civilization and their sacred right of local home rule.

Gold and Silver.

The Savannah Press says that The Constitution admits that the silver dollar is worth only 70 cents in gold. As a matter of fact The Constitution made no such admission. That sort of folly belongs to the argumentative trappings of the goldsmiths. The silver dollar is worth as much as a gold dollar anywhere in the United States. What The Constitution did say was that the bullion in a silver dollar is worth 70 cents in gold, and it is this fact that is destroying the agricultural prosperity of the south and west and building up that of India.

We observe that The Press falls back on the threat with which the goldbugs of Wall street and the east alarm the ignorant—namely, that the free coinage of silver will drive gold out of the country. We judge from the awed tone in which The Press makes this announcement that the editors have been reading some of Murat Halstead's eastern arguments with wild western trimmings. It is to be hoped, however, that Editor Stovall is having no such experience with the silver question as Editor Halstead. That son of thunder is in a state of mortal agony in regard to free coinage. When he sets out to discuss it, the steam rises from his herculean frame, groans issue from his manly bosom, and in a burst of rage, he hoarsely cries: "Would you drive gold out of the country?"

The trouble with these convulsions is that they have been going on ever since the Bland-Allison act was brought forward. The waving of a cowbell would suffice to scare the approach of the Fayetteville Indians. Put a hawk broil of pity toward the crest-fallen candidate, and with excommunicating deliberation he will pose the question. The motion received three votes.

John Stovall is half a mile away from the Gideons are at work in that section, and add to the giddiness of the silver dollar. Messay, Sheffield district, is making great efforts to get the colored people of this county to go into the wild third party scheme. Mr. Stovall's forces were in town last night when the efforts being made to foist them off into this new party.

All of Mr. Cleveland's friends who really want to see him nominated and elected are expediting the action of the Syracusians.

The result shows that Grace cares no more for Cleveland than he does for himself.

The republican party cannot refuse to nominate Mr. Harrison. His administration represents all that is narrow, mean, spiteful and sectional in the party.

If the gold will not contract the currency by so much as a dollar.

Then came the stampede and the crash in corn, the price of which dropped in a few seconds from $1 to 50 cents.

Such talk as this is nothing less than treasonable in the view of men who go about preaching that the "gold dollar is the measure of value," that "gold is always at par," and kindred absurdities;

but the whole matter may as well be put on a common sense basis at once.

"CHIMES OF NORMANDY."

A Local Company Forming to Play It for the Home for the Friendless.

Public interest has been so aroused in connection with this opera that it is with real pleasure that Atlanta will definitely say that it will be performed at Decatur Opera house on the nights of Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week.

There is no charity that can appeal more strongly to the benevolent of Atlanta than the one in whose behalf this opera has been undertaken.
The money raised will go to the Friendless.

Actuated by a desire to raise the money for this opera, the local company has determined to make it a superb entertainment in its music and all of its appointments, and have already incurred a large amount of expense.

It is their hope that an appreciative public will so sustain them that a handsome sum will be realized which will go to their charity.

It is safe to say that this opera will be the most entertaining of the season in Atlanta, and the strength of the company, in the skill and ability of the soloists, in the harmony and efficiency of the chorus, and in all its elegant appointments.

The ladies are having beautiful costumes made and a prettier program than the girls in any other amateur dressers will be able to put on here again.

A chorus girl who sings and dances well is always attractive at Atlanta.

The ladies and gentlemen who appear in the leading parts have been selected by Mr.
William Dowling as Germanica sing and act delightfully, and both are new voices to all but Atlanta.

Mr. W. L. Stanton, Mr. Kline and Mrs.

Thompson, who take the leading roles among the gentlemen, with Mr. Ward as miser, make up the company, all of whom will be from the four village maidens will be on hand in pretty dresses, bright smiles, pretty songs and pretty words.

But the Question is Now, by Which Line?

A VERY LIVELY RAILROAD WAR

Between the Representatives of the Two Routes to the Convention City—What They Have to Say About It.

Interest in the trip of the Georgia democrats to the Chicago convention is increasing as the time for the convention approaches, and many names are being entered from all parts of the state.

An interesting contest is going on between the two routes—the Louisville and Nashville and the Louisville and Nashville on the one side, and the East Tennessee on the other.

The Louisville and Nashville route is by way of the Western and Atlantic, Nashville, Louisville, and thence straight to Chicago. Mr. Fred D. Bush, No. 42 Wall street, as district passenger agent of the Louisville and Nashville, has charge of the important work of booking passengers for this route. The East Tennessee route is by way of Chattanooga, Cincinnati, and Columbus to Chicago, and Mr. Charles N. Knight, assistant general passenger agent of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia road, with headquarters in the Equitable Building, is attending to the booking for this route, and is pushing the work for it all worth.

The rate by both routes will be the same—$17.00 for the round trip from Atlanta, not including sleeping-car fare. The time will be approximately the same—twenty-five years ago, from Atlanta to Chicago, by either route.

A Constitution reporter saw the representatives of both routes yesterday, and they say that it is probable that as many as four or five hundred people will be on the Georgia delegation to the Chicago convention.

What the Louisville and Nashville claims

District Agent Fred Bush, of the Louisville and Nashville, was busy yesterday talking to the members of the Georgia delegation and well-known persons throughout the state.

"You see," said he, "our route has been selected not only by the Young Men's Democratic League, under whose auspices we have great credit, but also by the committee appointed by the Georgia state delegation to the national convention. Thus our route is close and careful investigation of the advantages offered by all routes, and you may depend upon it we are going to carry thy crowd. Tickets from Atlanta to Chicago and return will be sold for $17.00, going from June 10th to June 20th, and until July 1st, and return, and from every point in Georgia round-trip tickets will be sold for only one fare to Atlanta.

The sleeping-car fare will only be $3.70 for one lower or upper berth from Atlanta to Chicago, and there will be a double berth for $6.50. With every $6 order give a written receipt, and refund on money sent by mail to any address. Circular free in plain envelope. Mention this paper when writing. Address the paper to U. S. A.
